Ilfracombe minor injuries weekend service extended until September

We are pleased to confirm that the weekend MIU service in Ilfracombe will be continuing through to September 2023.

Until 30 September 2023 the following will be in place:

A weekend MIU service (Friday to Monday) will be provided from 10am to 6pm by two fully qualified private ambulance staff at the Tyrrell Hospital in Ilfracombe. This will be available for both walk-ins and patients referred through NHS 111. Also available is ongoing interim GP support to provide a minor injury service

NHS staff survey results put the Royal Devon above average across the majority of themes

The NHS has experienced unprecedented challenges in recent years and the effects of these continue to be felt, not only at Royal Devon University Healthcare NHS Foundation Trust, but across the country.

The results from the 2022 NHS Staff Survey reflect these challenges and despite some decline in results the Trust is very pleased that the Royal Devon remains above average when compared to similar trusts.

More information about our staff survey results is available here on our website.
